This week's events

Our Year 10 students have continued to impress across all subjects, including their option subjects, by demonstrating a strong work ethic and commitment to their studies. Their consistent focus and effort in lessons have been evident in both core subjects and electives, where they have shown dedication to mastering new content and skills. The students' willingness to engage deeply in their chosen areas, paired with their ability to balance the demands of multiple subjects, highlights their determination to achieve success as they progress toward their final years of school. Their perseverance and enthusiasm make them stand out, reflecting positively on both their academic potential and personal growth.

Next week 25 students will be attending London's first ever JD up exhibition which promises to be an unforgettable experience and opportunity to speak with business leaders across many different sectors. We are excited to share this experience in more detail with you in next week's newsletter.

Year 10 students have shown outstanding leadership by supporting the Volleyball tournament on Thursday and assisting during sports clubs. They took on important responsibilities such as managing equipment, helping with scheduling, and refereeing. Their teamwork, problem-solving, and communication skills were key to the tournament's success. Additionally, in sports clubs, they provided guidance to younger pupils, fostering a positive and inclusive environment.

Homework is important because it reinforces learning outside the classroom, allowing students to practice and apply concepts independently, which enhances retention and mastery of the subject matter. It also helps develop essential skills such as time management, responsibility, and self-discipline, preparing students for future academic and personal challenges

Students can use several strategies to stay on top of homework, including:

1. Create a schedule: Set aside specific times each day dedicated to completing homework and studying, and stick to it to build a consistent routine.
2. Prioritize tasks: Break assignments down into smaller, manageable tasks and tackle the most urgent or difficult ones first.
3. Use a planner: Track deadlines and upcoming assignments in a physical or digital planner to avoid forgetting any tasks.
4. Set reminders: Use phone alerts or apps to remind yourself of deadlines and homework tasks to stay organized.
5. Eliminate distractions: Find a quiet space and limit distractions, such as phones or social media, to focus better on completing assignments

Homework Push

Please continue to check that students are keeping up with homework; this is particularly important now they are studying their GCSE content.
If students are struggling, please encourage them to see or email their teachers before the deadline for support.
